THE CASUAL SIDE OF MODERN DESIGN

“Relaxed modern style is about balance,” says interior designer Lisa Kanning. “Every hard edge needs a soft line; every rough texture calls for a smooth one; and every neutral tone is punctuated by pure white.”

In this Atlantic One condominium in Aventura, Kanning finds this “common ground” by juxtaposing glass, chrome, marble and Lucite with natural forms and fabrics. “The natural references add a calming note,” says Kanning, who worked with Melissa Ziober on the project.

Throughout, Kanning layers a sophisticated palette of neutrals with subtle variations of sage green and pale blue. Gray limestone flooring

Dale Nally's mixed-media montage incorporates an image of Elizabeth Taylor. The untitled piece introduces red, cobalt blue and gold into the dining area's neutral mix.

THE SITTING AREA'S CLUB CHAIRS, BUFFET AND MIRROR CONVEY A "CASUAL MODERN" FEEL, AS KANNING CALLS IT. "IT'S MEANT TO BE RELAXING BUT STILL HAVE A MODERN ENERGY," SHE SAYS.

Kanning custom designed the ottoman in the family room. Covered in glossy white fabric, it doubles as a cocktail table.

flows from room to room, while Venetian plaster and grass cloth give the walls texture.

A vignette in the living area exemplifies Kanning’s mix-it-up approach. Here, a boxy Lucite chair pairs with a coral sconce. Just beyond, a sofa and chair designed by Kanning gather around glass-and-chrome cocktail tables. A cowhide area rug defines the grouping. Nearby, another vignette combines a sleek day bed and a branch-like floor lamp.

Perfect for relaxing with cocktails, the sitting area features abaca rope-covered club chairs and a floating buffet. For dining, Kanning chose a table with a blond-wood top. “I wanted light wood for a peaceful effect,” she says.

Furniture with rounded edges fills the family room, where plump swivel chairs surround an oval-shaped ottoman.

In the private areas of the home, Kanning introduces flights of fancy, such as an abaca-rope bed in the guestroom and a die-cut, pinwheel-patterned screen in the master bedroom.

This apartment proves that modern style can take on a relaxed feel, naturally.

SERENITY WITH WAVES OF WHITE," KANNING SAYS.

An abaca-rope bed designed by Kenneth Cobonpue takes center stage in a sunlit alcove in the guestroom.

Bright white adds sparkling freshness to the master bedroom. "The punch of white adds a lively touch," Kanning says.

"THE COOL WATERY COLORS OF THE OCEAN WERE THE STARTING POINT," KANNING SAYS, REFERRING TO THE MASTER BEDROOM.
